Chester Crumpler, Traffic Officer And Musician, Dies

Any motorist driving through Spring and High Sts. in the 1960s and early 1970s couldn't help but notice the "hefty man with the deep voice and loud whistle."

That's how a newspaper described Patrolman Chester Crumpler as he directed afternoon rush-hour traffic in downtown Columbus. The popular officer, whose "show" was caught by drivers and walkers round the intersection, died Monday night at Mt. Carmel Hospital State St.

Crumpler, 59, retired from the police force in early 1977 after 27 years on the force. He once said that during his 10 years of traffic duty, he said never was there an accident.

He later worked for the Franklin County Municipal Courts as a service bailiff. During this work, he appeared on the WBNS-TV10 program "Traffic Court."

Before becoming the popular traffic officer, Crumpler was known as the "Singing Bellboy" because of his show-stopping performances at the Deshler Hotel. He later was one of the first black men to win the first prize on the "Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout Show" by singing "Ole Man River."

His golden voice earned him a job with the Duke Ellington Band as lead singer in 1946 and 1947. By this time, the baritonist had served with the Army during World War II.

When he was drafted, Crumpler was attending the

$10,000 Goal Forecast For Columbus Campaign To Aid Atlanta Death Probe

As contributions from around the country pour in to pay expenses for the investigation of deaths and disappearances of black children in Atlanta, a local campaign expects to have $10,000 raised Sunday for the investigation.

Clifford Tyree, administrator for the Youth Services Bureau of Columbus and chairperson of the campaign, said around-the-clock fund raising will start at noon Friday and continue until 4 p.m. Sunday, when the campaign ends.

Various groups and individuals are making contributions, and more than 100 volunteers are expected for the weekend effort, he said. An anonymous donor gave $300 to Atlanta Investigation Donation (AID) and attached a note that read:

"Please ask people to pray. God never fails. He needs our arms, voices, money and support, but the power of prayer will cast out the evil ones and His power over the killers. Please ask people to pray daily for the stopping of the killings and God justice to be done."

Tuesday, 19 children were dead and two missing since the killings first began almost two years ago. No one has been arrested and charged for the murders.

Eugene Duffy, deputy director of the Atlanta Community Relations Commission, told about

Prosecutor Says Whitfield Murder By White Woman Was 'Carefully Calculated'

By MARY TAYLOR
And
RICHARD PAYNE

Twenty one year old Linda Walden, accused of aggravated murder in the June 10, 1980 shotgun slaying of William Whitfield III, claimed self-defense at the opening of her trial Monday in Franklin County Court of Common Pleas.

Walden, a white woman, contends that she shot the 26 year old black police officer candidate after he raped her in her apartment at 4423 Appian Way E. Apt. A.

"She shot him to protect herself from further violence," said defense attorney Gerald G. Simmons. Walden feared she would be further harmed since she could identify her attacker, Simmon said.

Prosecuting Attorney Al White told a jury of seven women and five men--three of whom were black--that it "was part of a well defined, carefully calculated plan to commit aggravated murder."

The prosecution believes Walden killed Whitfield to prevent her white fiance from finding out about their relationship.

Although Walden, who is originally from and now lives in Ashville, Ohio, denies any involvement with Whitfield; however, White said, "Evidence will show that they had a romantic affair of some duration."

Dr. John Stover, the emergency room physician at Mt. Carmel East Hospital, performed a pubic exam on Walden several hours after the alleged rape which did not support her claim. He found "the exam normal with no evidence of trauma." He also testified that he found no evidence of sperm of semen in the vagina, and found only slight redness to the external vaginal area and a slight laceration between the breast.

On cross examination by Simmons, Stover admitted signing a form in which a nurse indicated there were abrasions on Walden's arm and that she had a swollen right cheek.

Stover's testimony was partially supported by Sylvia Acton, a criminalist with the Columbus Police Dept. crime lab. Acton testified that she could find no evidence of semen or sperm on the slide and swabs she investigated.

Acton said she did find a small spot of blood and semen on the robe Walden

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

Public Hearing Set On Social Services

State Rep. Les Brown will chair a community hearing as part of the Ohio legislative review of the planning for social services by the state Department of Public Welfare.

The hearing will be from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday, March 5, at the Sawyer Recreation Center, 1056 Atcheson St. Recipients of social services and service providers and interested citizens may make comments on all Title XX social services administered by the welfare department.

Comments may include unmet service needs, eligibility for various services, the value of services presently being delivered and the impact of service cutbacks if funds are cut.

The welfare department has the authority to plan, develop programs, make rules and regulations on social services. Brown, chairman of the House of Representatives Human Resources Committee, is charged with the initial responsibility of the legislative review of plans proposed by the welfare department.

Bargaining Bill

The House Commerce and Labor Committee will take a vote soon on a collective bargaining bill sponsored by a member of the Black Elected Democrats of Ohio (BEDO).

State Rep. Casey Jones is the prime sponsor of a bill which would recognize the validity of collectively bargained contracts between public employers and public employees. Jones said the legislation does not "repeal or undermine any section of the Ohio Revised Code dealing with labor relations. The current laws pertaining to strikes, binding arbitration, closed shop, and fact-finding are not affected in any way."

Beatty Recommended

State Rep. Otto Beatty Jr. (D-Columbus) has been recommended by Ohio House Speaker Vern Riffe for appointment to a four-year term on the State Set Aside Review Board. The board reviews state contracts for construction and services to make certain that all legal requirements for participation by minority businesses are met.

Ohio law requires that minority construction, architectural and service firms be given the opportunity to bid on at least 10 percent of the amount of state projects. The board selects contracts to be set aside for bidding only by minority firms.

Boy Scout Troop Barred From Memorial Tribute To Children Slain In Atlanta

By Ronnie Clark
(CLEVELAND BUREAU)

I always thought that Boy Scouts of America represented honesty, kindness and compassion, and stressed the real values in life. I never knew anyone to claim that prejudice was also a part of their creed.

Although the Scouts have long been known as a staunchly conservative organization, it was an institution that no one has ever accused of being controversial.

It seems that one man in Rocky River likes it that way too. Walter Coulter, committee chairman of Troop 666 in Rocky River had planned a program for last Tuesday in which girl, cub and boy scouts of that troop would be given black arm bands to wear in a memorial tribute to the 20 slain black children in Atlanta. The program was to take place in a Rocky River church.

"I was watching the news the other night and I saw a story about the Atlanta situation," says Coulter.

"In the story they were asking for people all over the country to show the government their support gesture it would be for an all-white boy scout troop like ours to publicly show their support. It was the purest thing I could think of doing."

Two Intruders Die Of Gunshot Wounds

Two unrelated break-ins ended in the deaths of a pair of Columbus men hospitalized for gunshot wounds in a five day span. Both men were the alleged intruders, and were shot by the residents of the houses they entered.

Marvin Eugene Hunter, 26, of 2677 Glenbar Ct., died last Tuesday in St. Anthony Hospital from a .38 caliber wound to the temple suffered in a Feb. 19 incident.

Williams L. Owens, 55, of 48 Auburn Ave., shot Hunter after the latter forced his way into the East Side residence at gunpoint, police said.

Police were told by Owen that two men armed with .22 caliber revolvers forced their way into the home's dining room. Owens was inside bargaining with an unidentified carpet sales-

Black Workers Troubled By Moves At Children Services

By RICHARD PAYNE

Black employees of Franklin County Children Services (FCCS) are saying race and vocaliness have played a major role in the reduction and reassignment of agency workers.

Executive Secretary Wilbert A. Jansen disputes these claims saying changes in the operation of the adoptive and foster care agency have employees upset.

WILBERT A. JANSEN
...fccs executive secretary

The failure of last November's .85 mill tax levy has forced FCCS to make itself a more time efficient and cost effective agency. FCCS received $8.1 million from real estate and personal property taxes last year.

Jansen said that 585 workers were employed at FCCS in January 1980. After the levy failure (Issue 4), employees were reduced. Jansen said the agency has tried to reduce the work level to 511.

"Since then we've had to get down to 450," Jansen said.

However, black employees spoken to said they have no trouble with the work force reduction; however, they feel the method being used is underhanded and racially motivated.

Jansen said that the agency is doing everything it can to avoid laying off people. "I think we will have enough people resign."

"The division made the reductions based on what they felt were manpower levels that we wanted to achieve. They were certainly not racially motivated," he said.

Changes in addition to abolishing some positions include: a 60 percent direct service initiative, lateral transfers and lowering job classifications without lowering wages.

Jansen said he told the division heads "'You come up with how we can reduce,' and added that, I have basically accepted the division heads' decisions."

Republicans To Host 'School Of Politics'

Jesse Wood, chairman of the Central Ohio Young Republicans, will give a discussion geared towards increasing black participation in Republican politics during a "school of politics" this Saturday at the Imperial House Arlington on Dublin Rd.

According to Wood, "The monopoly held by the Democratic Party on votes within the black community is breaking up. Republicans can provide leadership and policy alternatives to the timeworn pledges of Democrats in past years."

The political seminar is sponsored by the Ohio League of Young Republican Clubs in order to protect Republican gains made last November and to increase the chance for future Republican success in the state, according to Wood.

Among persons to address the seminar are U.S. Rep. Clarence "Bud" Brown (R-Urbana), Columbus City Attorney Greg Lashutka, State Rep. Michael A. Fox (R-Hamilton).

It is being hosted by the Central Ohio Young Republicans and the Cap City Young Republicans, which is chaired by Edward "E.J." Thomas.

Consultant Firm Looks At Women, Their Concerns

"Getting the job done" was the philosophy used to start Carolyn Morris & Associates, and that philosophy has worked in the continued success of the company, according to its founder.

Carolyn M. Morris, Ph.D., senior consultant for the company, said getting the job done today includes managing the consulting firm, publishing The Woman's Viewpoint, a news magazine for women and servicing the Job Emporium, an individual job and career counseling service for women.

The firm includes 13 employees with affiliate associates in San Francisco, Seattle, Chicago and Cleveland. It was started in 1978 with Dr. Morris and two part time associates.

DR. CAROLYN M. MORRIS

While teaching politics at Ohio State University, Dr. Morris decided she wanted more than teaching and began the firm on a part-time basis.

"Simply teaching in a university can become stagnating if one does it for too long," she said. "For those who love to teach, it is imperative that they go into the 'real' world and test their theories."

She said services at the firm have grown from human relations workshops within companies to include public seminars on auditing, marketing, profitability studies and improvement plans, wage and salary administration, technical proposal development and research and design.

In addition to the consulting services, The Woman's Viewpoint is a subsidiary operation of Morris & Associates, she said, describing the publication as a news magazine that keeps women and men abreast of the issues that affect working women.

Content wise, she said, the magazine "features stories that are of interest to women as well as men, programs offered by companies for the advancement of women, legislation that affects working women, helpful hints to assist in their careers and information on new viable careers."

The Job Emporium is a new concept in career counseling, according to Dr. Morris. She said it is individual counseling with the benefits of personalized service.

Janice Whitmire Promoted To Sales Director For Mary Kay

On March 15, Janice M. Whitmire will officially debut as the 16th Sales Director in Columbus of Mary Kay Cosmetics -- the sixth largest cosmetic company in the world with net sales of $166.9 million in 1980. The event will take place at the Ramada Inn on 161 at 2:30 p.m.

JANICE M. WHITMIRE, right, makes pledge to Clifford Tyree for the Atlanta Investigation Donations drive at the temporary AID Office in Mt. Vernon Plaza. Mrs. Whitmire, recently promoted to Director of Sales for Mary Kay Cosmetics, pledged to request that her 28 sales representatives donate $1 from every order placed in the month of March. (PIERCE PHOTO)

Mrs. Whitmire is the first black holding residence in Columbus to achieve directorship of the company whose products are sold strictly through 120,145 sales representatives -- 2,487 of those are directors worldwide.

She achieved the distinction in a little over a year, having started in January 1980, because she and her unit of sales representatives achieved company requirements in sales and recruiting during the last three months.

Because of her deep concern over the kidnapping and murdering of some 22 Atlanta children, she has requested that her unit of 28 representatives donate $1 from every order placed in the month of March.

She met with Clifford Tyree, organizer of the Atlanta Investigation Donatins, in the temporary office of AID at Mt. Vernon Plaza Monday and announced the pledge.

"I don't know how much we'll raise because participation in the drive will be voluntary. But I think most of our ladies will participate," she said Monday.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, founded by Mary Kay Ash of Dallas in 1963, rewards top sales performers with special gifts -- pink cadillacs, mink coats and diamond rings.

The direct sales organization is unique in that its sales representtives are not restricted to any territory, but may develop an unlimited number of sales persons anywhere they wish. The director of a unit is not really a boss, according to Mrs. Whitmire. She (or he) trains, aids and guides sales representatives. Men are representatives for the company as well.

Mrs. Whitmire says "Mary Kay can change the course of your life. The amount of income you can make is astounding. Through persistance and work, you can go from poverty to comfort in no time at all."

Another exciting aspect of being with Mary Kay is the travel. "I'm a Columbus girl. Before Mary Kay, I hadn't really traveled at all. Now I've been to Philadelphia and Dallas twice -- all in the past six months," she said.

"Our selling technique is exciting and fun, too. We sell at beauty clinics, among friends, in our homes or wherever we wish," the new director related.

"Response such as Mrs. Whitmire's is heartwarming," he added.

Mrs. Whitmire resides at 6350 Well Fleet Dr. in Columbus with her husband, Dennis. Dennis is a full partner of the Lee Ross Cleaners in Mt. Vernon Plaza.

Since 1970, the United States Government has issued 16 reports on the tar and nicotine content of cigarette brands. In these 16 reports no cigarette has ever been reported to be lower in tar than CARLTON.

Today's CARLTON has even less tar than the version tested by the Government for its latest report.

In fact, many new brands have been introduced since, including some "ultra low tars." But despite the new entries, CARLTON has maintained its leadership position—CARLTON still lowest.

Baptist Pastors To Conduct Service Leading To Revival

By REV. A. WILSON WOOD
The Columbus Baptist

DR. J.J. ASHBURN
...conference president

Pastor's Conference will hold its initial Evangelistic Service Friday evening, March 6, leading up to the 13th Annual Session of the Simultaneous Revival at the Friendship Baptist Church, 29 S. Eureka Ave. The Rev. G. Thomas Turner is the host pastor.

This is the first in a series of four services held in various aras of the city in preparation for the Preaching Mission which begins with the Kick-off on April 5 at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium.

The Rev. E.B. Hicks, Minister of Cooperative Relationships for the American Baptist Convention, will be the spaker for the evening. Devotions will be conducted by Pilgrim Baptist, and the choirs of Friendship will provide the music for the evening. Everyone is invited to these services as they are helpful in relating to witnessing and knocking on doors by the various evangelism teams from the local churches.

Dr. J.J. Ashburn, president of the Pastors' Conference, will preside over these services. It is hoped that all pastors and licensed ministers along with the local congregations will start out with us at Friendship and continue through the series.

The laymen of the district an dcity will be in attendance and will lead out in some of these services. So come and share with us. Come for spiritual food which can only come from the hand of God. The services will begin at 7:30 sharp each evening.

Next week, service will be held at the Mt. Carmel Baptist Church, 608 Stambaugh Ave.

Division Workshop Held By Baptist Association

The Columbus Baptist Association, under the auspices of the American Baptist Association, held its annual Multi-Division Workshop last Saturday at Second Baptist Church. The workshop allows churches to come together as one and share ideas with other churches.

About 28 churches attended the workshop with over 100 people participating. Divisions represented were christian higher education, adult ministry, youth ministry, child ministry, program and outreach, missionary department and the American Baptist Women's.

Dr. Carl Brown, pastor of the University Baptist Church, served as moderator of the Christian Baptist Association. The meeting was conducted by the Rev. Evelyn Huber, area minister for the Columbus Baptist Association.

The Rev. Leon L. Troy and Henry L. Key of Second Baptist were host ministers. Mrs. Juanita Bridges, chairperson of the Board of Christian Education at Second Baptist, handled the full arrangements for the day's activities.

AT HOME-Mrs. Mary Myers, wife of the Rev. Robert A. Myers, pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church, is home from the hospital following another recovery from brain surgery. She said, "I feel great, have no scars and just came from the beauty shop."

Before you start the day, save some energy.

Saving energy is easy. Even in the morning. All you need to know is what it takes and follow through.

Here's a list of little things you can do that won't cost a cent.

So start putting them into practice.

You'll be surprised how much energy you'll save.

Surprised, too, that your lifestyle won't change.

Morning Energy Savers

Starting tomorrow, take short showers.

When shaving, don't run hot water continuously. Fill the sink halfway instead.

If you use an electric razor you actually save energy, using less of it in a year than a hand razor and hot water uses in a week.

Whenever possible, use a toaster, toaster-oven or a fry pan in place of the large oven or range surface units.

Never use the oven as a heater.

Place a pan on the surface unit before turning the heat on. Heating air is wasteful.

Match pans to the size of the heating surfaces on your range.

If boiling eggs, use a minimum of water. It shortens cooking time.

Save breakfast dishes until evening or a time when all dishes can be washed together.

If frying bacon and eggs, surface units can be turned off a short time before food is done. Let the retained heat finish the cooking.

In winter, open the draperies so sunlight will warm your home. Turn the thermostat down.

Turn off all unneeded lights, radio, TV, etc. when leaving the house or no one is using them.

One final tip.

For dozens of additional ideas, call or visit our office and ask for our free series of SAVE* booklets.

MOMENTS IN HISTORY

In 1865 John Rock became the first Black admitted to practice before the Supreme Court.

Irresponsibility At Its Worse

The worse in community and racial behavior, came to fore last Thursday during the efforts to secure the dismissal of Peter Carlin as superintendent of Cleveland's public schools.

The dismissal of Carlin was the hope of a large segment of Clevelanders. Not that Carlin alone is responsible for the disgraceful conditions Cleveland's public schools are now in. But, that he is one facet of the problem.

As the renewal of Carlin's contract is the sole responsibility of the elected Cleveland Board of Education, it was the hope of the more prudent citizens to try to convince a majority of the board, that it was in the best interest of the public schools, that a move be made toward reconciling the bitter differences that now has the operation of the public schools at what appears, is an irreconcilable difference.

The beginning of the unfortunate confrontation came about when City Councilwoman Fannie Lewis induced students to leave their classes last Tuesday and barge into business offices and other places completely removed from the Board of Education, demanding the removal of Superintendent Peter Carlin.

When the Board of Education met last Thursday, Councilwoman Fannie Lewis was joined by others attending the board meeting and there they disported themselves in a most disgraceful manner.

The object of their epithets and insults, was Board member, Lula Wade, a black woman.

Persons who should have known better, but nevertheless, engaged in the public exhibition of vulgar conduct whether passively or actual, were Fannie Lewis, Larry Rush, Jim Raplin, Dr. Eugene Jordan, Atty. Stanley Tolliver and Roberta Fann.

Sharing also a part of the blame for this unfortunate conduct, must be Board president John E. Gallagher, whose presiding power could have and should have cut off the privilege of speaking when the speakers strayed from the issue before the Board to a personal attack on board member Lula Wade. President Gallagher, however, permitted the tirades to go on and unchallenged.

If the vote of Mrs. Wade was wanted and needed, and it was, personally attacking her at a board meetings was no way to secure it.

Others, by reasoning and logical persuasion, had before the convening of the board meeting, secured the promise of Mrs. Wade to support the ouster move. Therefore, all the uninformed personal attacks on Mrs. Wade did, was, unfortunately, to embitter her to the point of changing her vote and, thus bringing to naught, all the efforts a number of citizens, black and white, had made to make secure the four votes needed for the ouster of Superintendent Carlin.

What has been accomplished now is a further division of the Cleveland School Board, and, a wider gap between the school superintendent and Judge Frank Battisti and his self-appointed desegregation staff.

The only losers in all of this, are the innocent children who must attend our public schools.

Those who, by their misdirected conduct, self-service interest, brought all of this about, can now comfort themselves in the fact that they have made worse an already intolerable situation in the operation and administration of our public schools.

If these persons think that they have aided the cause of quality education for Cleveland school children, they should face the stark facts of how sex, drugs and violence are making a horrible journey for thousands of boys and girls who must be bused every day from home to school. Bus drivers and monitors tell an almost unbelievable story of student conduct on their buses.

If these stories don't move the decent, concerned citizens of Cleveland to immediate action, then there is little hope for public education in Cleveland.

Rabble rousing and public display of bad manners, and, questionable strategy for the sake of the TV cameras and personal, selfish interest, is not in the best interest of the black children, who - thanks to a poorly administered desegregation program - are now attending schools that are eighty percent black.

Because of the high percentage of black students, the operation of Cleveland's public schools must now be the major responsibility of black people.

If we as black people cannot then put together racial unity and the counsel and expertness of our own people to bring order out of chaos and, eventually make available to every black child quality education, then we must stand as a disgrace to black pride, and unworthy of the respect of others.

We can only say: God help us in this, one of our darkest hours.

Van Meter's School Financing Plan

By DR. RONALD EDWARDS
Superintendent East Cleveland Schools

Ohio Senate President Pro Tem, Thomas A. Van Meter, has artfully crafted a new school finance plan. I have read the Van Meter plan with much interest only because it promises something as compared with Governor Rhodes' two-year budget which promises practically no additional money for education.

I have described the Van Meter proposal as being artfully crafted because its surface attractions might provoke more smiles than the substance down through its core. However, like school finance plans of the past ten years, there is good news and bad news about the Van Meter proposal, and it is eventually a matter of calculated judgment of each school district as to whether it is more good than bad or bad than good. I prefer to speak to the bill as it would relate to the East Cleveland City School District. Desiring to be optimistic, I will point out the good news first.

The Good News

1. Since the East Cleveland City School District has a relatively low per pupil valuation, we would benefit from a plan for the equal sharing of the business and industrial tax duplicate throughout the Cuyahoga County. Districts such as Cuyahoga Heights, Solon, Euclid, and others which presently benefit from high industrial bases and thereby low millage would have to share their base. Let's remember that the Ohio State Constitution guarantees a child in East Cleveland the same educational opportunity as the child in Cuyahoga Heights.

2. Since the East Cleveland School District has one of the highest school tax rates in Ohio, the tax payers of this district would benefit substantially from the proposed reduced property tax rate for both home owners and our few industrial properties.

3. An income-based tax as proposed by Van Meter would have an inflationary design, so that income for schools would increase in proportion to inflation. Presently, with a fixed base design, constant increases in property tax rates must be voted to obtain needed additional revenue.

4. An income-based tax would mean that present wage earners would bear the cost of education, and at the time they are retired and would have lower income, they would not continue to financially support education to the same extent. Those who have money would pay, and those who do not earn would not pay.

The Bad News

1. The high income districts such as Shaker Heights, Cleveland Heights-University Heights, Beachwood, etc., would benefit more than the low income districts such as East Cleveland and others similarly situated, from being able to retain the one percent (1%) income tax that would be levied under the Van Meter proposal -- which calls for this money to go directly to the school district of residence of the wage earner. East Cleveland residents have almost the lowest income in the county and would benefit least from this aspect of the proposal. I hasten to remind the reader again of the equal educational opportunity clause of the Ohio Constitution.

2. The Van Meter proposal offers no provision for money for compensatory education or the five items of categorical aid presently financed by the State.

3. The Van Meter proposal allows for localities to vote for additional income tax for other than the common educational progams. With the low income level of the East Cleveland Community, we cannot help ourselves by passing additional income tax.

4. The Van Meter proposal as it is presently written would provide the East Cleveland School District with only $800,000 of additional money. This is far less than half of what we would need in additional money just to maintain our present program.

Conclusion

The Van Meter proposal has many good points and is good in basic theory, but changes are necessary for it to be workable in the East Cleveland City School District. Most important among such changes would be the collection and disbursement (per pupil) of the income tax on a county-wide basis, and the making of special provisions for categorical aid, and funding for compensatory education.

I bet Mr. Van Meter has the agricultural and industrial interests smiling.

TO BE EOUAL

Human Rights An Important Policy Factor

A nation's foreign policy amounts to more than military and economic moves. It has to reflect what that country is all about -- its strategy for maintaining its proper place in the world and its strategy for maintaining the values and ideals it lives by.

America's strong identification with democratic ideals, however imperfectly they may be practiced, ought therefore, to be a fundamental part of its foreign policy.

Our national ideals are at least part of the reason why we respond so strongly to Russian imperialism, and why we have so often been uncomfortable with "friends" who trample on basic human rights in their own countries.

The Carter Administration embraced the concept of a strong human rights plank in its international policies. It shocked many by publicly condemning acts by some long-term allies, leading to strained relations with those countries. And it was charged with helping bring down some regimes that had been close to the U.S.

But that human rights policy won a new respect and admiration for the U.S. from people all over the world. When America cut off aid or military assistance to an oppressive, deeply unpopular regime, it was able to deal with the successor government with clean hands.

While some authoritarian leaders grumbled about the policy and even publicly denounced the U.S., many also quietly released political prisoners, stopped abhorrent forms of persecution, and restored some personal freedoms.

Our strong human rights stand impelled us to successfully work for majority rule in Zimbabwe and to apply pressure on South Africa.

A viable human rights policy clarifies the rivalry with Russia. In the eyes of most of the world, it separates us from being just another superpower out to dominate far-off places. Instead, people everywhere can respond to and admire our vision of freedom.

Ditching human rights as part of our foreign policy would be negative. It would again tie us to dictators who are doomed to fall victims to their own people, and their unpopularity is bound to rub off on us.

Because such explosions are inevitable, dictatorships are unstable allies. The services they provide us are unequal to the energy and resources it takes to prop them up.

That does not mean we should break with every government that violates human rights, or even with every ally that is undemocratic. Unfortunately, the world being what it is, that would leave few countries we could talk to.

But it does mean keeping our distance from extreme human-rights violators, refusing to become too closely identified with oppressive dictatorships, and pressuring for change to make them less repressive. That would help give moderates a chance in countries otherwise polarized between the anti-democratic extremes of left and right.

Because of various statements made by the new President and key figures in his administration, both before the campaign and after, some commentators have hastened to assume signals are being sent for penny-ante dictators to start up the torture chambers.

But the Secretary of State has affirmed that "human rights is an essential and fundamental aspect" of our foreign policy. And that may shed some light on the recent Korean commutation of a death sentence on a prominent opposition leader and the lifting of martial law in the Philippines.

It appears that the rulers of those nations felt it advisable to comply with human rights principles early in the Reagan Administration. It is likely that there will be less public posturing on human rights in the next four years, but those acts offer hope that an effective human rights policy will remain an integral part of our nation's foreign policy.

Take Rehabilitation Out Of Jail

By ALEXANDER JONES

The programs operated by the Federal Bureau of Prisons to rehabilitate offenders have failed to do the thing that they are supposed to do and the thing that is needed most: reduce recidivism (the returning of offenders to jail because of new offenses committed once released from prison).

It is true that some of these programs teach offenders valuable educational and occupational skills, and those responsible for implementing them should be commended. However, the Prison Bureau does not broadly use proven and successful community programs and thus its effectiveness in reducing recidivism is practically non-existent.

The Bureau of Prisons operates several programs for inmates designed to improve their educational and occupational skills so that they can lead productive lives after their release. The educational courses range from elementary to college level, while the occupational training ranges from low skill tasks to such things as data processing and auto mechanics.

The Bureau also uses Community Treatment Centers (CTC's) which are residences for offenders located in urban areas. Offenders approved for the CTC program are given the opportunity to actually seek employment in the community during the six months prior to their release. The CTC's coupled with the training programs have proven very effective in reducing the unemployment rate among parolees.

Yet, despite their success in getting parolees jobs, they show only a fragile 10% reduction in recidivism and only among those hard core minority offenders for the first year after release.

In comparison, relatively inexpensive community based programs such as Lifespring, Narconon and others have shown an ability to greatly reduce recidivism by as much as 40%-70%.

The Prison Bureau should continue, and indeed expand, its educational and occupational training programs. However, it should also get its inmates out of the prison environment as soon as possible, and into a community based program that has proven it can help offenders become productive, law-abiding citizens.

Decades of failures have made it painfully clear that prisons are not the place for rehabilitation. They simply don't work. However, if you take the guy out of prison and put into a program that does work, you will get the desired result: reduced recidivism, and thus reduced crime.

That's what the Bureau of Prisons should do.

BOOK REVIEW

By JAY VANLEER

CHR PAPERBACK BOOK PACKETS, selected by the Council on Human Relations.

There are four new Paperback Book Packets that have been chosen 1) Pre-School/Primary, 2) Elementary, 3) Junior High/Middle School and 4) High School/Adult reading. Because of a persistent call for more human relations materials, particularly for classroom use, the Council has compiled these inexpensive paperback volumes for the use of educators, librarians, media specialists and interested parents. Accompanying each book packet is a helpful guide containing creative ideas and suggestions for its effective use.

Some of the intriguing titles for the Pre-School/Primary category are "Nobody Asked Me If I Wanted a Baby Sister," by Martha Alexander; "Grandma Didn't Wave Back," by Rose Blue, a heartwarming story about a little girl's understanding of the changes age brings when she realizes her grandmother has become confused and forgetful.

Elementary category titles are: "Queenie Peavy," by Robert Burch tells of Queenie's acquaintance with poverty and ridicule because her father is in the penitentiary; "The Secret Summer of L.E.B." by Barbara Brooks Wallace which relates the risk a young girl takes when she befriends "Creepy Douglas" the class outcast.

The Junior High/Middle School selections cover a variety of topics from "A Time To Love, A Time To Mourn," by Paige Dixon citing the dilemma of 18 year old Jordan facing life with Lou Gehrig's disease.

Florence E. Randall's "The Almost Year," which explores the sensitive approach to interracial relationships is one of the stories included in the High School/Adult series.

Each packet contains at least ten stories that are geared to the interest of its particular age group.

For a detailed brochure of each classification and description of the individual stories, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Council on Human Relations, 618 The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio 44114 or call their office at 781-6630 to obtain information as to where Book Packets may be obtained. The CHR Paperback Book Packets are reasonably priced at $20.

Civil Rights Update

UNITED STATES COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS

HUSBAND IMMUNE: Roanoke, Va. Circuit Court Judge has overturned an award of $65,000 damages to a divorced woman whose husband had beaten her during their marriage.

Judge L.L. Koontz, Jr. said he was bound by a recent decision of the State Supreme Court which upheld the common law doctrine of "interspousal immunity."

There are 13 states where, in order to preserve family harmony, one partner in a marriage may not sue the other for damages. Virginia is one of them.

SUIT ALLOWED: In a 6-3 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court in Maine v. Thiboutot, has expanded its view of the 1871 Civil Rights law by stating that the law could be used to sue when the violation involves federal law and doesn't involve the Constitution.

The Court also ruled that winners of such suits can collect the cost of attorney's fees from the losers.

SUIT WON: The Department of Justice has obtained a consent decree requiring Fort Lauderdale, Fla. to seek to attain the goal of employing blacks in 11.25% of the police and fire fighter positions in the city and of hiring sufficient women to eliminate discrimination.

The city was charged with violating the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the nondiscrimination provisions of the revenue sharing and law enforcement funding laws by pursuing employment policies that discriminate against blacks and women.

The suit claimed that there are only 6 blacks and 13 women among the city's 405 police officers and 4 blacks and no women among 275 fire fighters.

SIOUX WIN: In U.S. v. the Sioux Nation of Indians, the U.S. government has been ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to pay the Sioux nation more than $122 million for the government's illegal seizure of their land in the Black Hills of South Dakota a century ago.

Ruling 8-1, the high court said the "rations" given to the Sioux when the land was taken in the 1870's were not "just compensation" for the 7.3 million acres which contained gold.

RACIAL TENSION

The black community in Des Moines has expressed concern about the increased visibility of Ku Klux Klan activity in Iowa.

Southeast Iowa law enforcement officers acknowledge the existence of the Klan, but downplay its significance even though the Klan has advertised for membership in a Burlington newspaper and conducted a cross burning in Iowa City.

The Burlington area sheriff believes some people may have overreacted to reports of the organization's activities.

EDUCATION

The Chicago Board of Education recently adopted a resolution that requires all public school employees hired after September 1, to live in the city. The resolution states that any employee living in the city now may not move out after September 1, but present employees or anyone hired before September 1, will not have to move into the city. Violation of the rule will subject an employee to dismissal.

HAL WILLIAMS

Hal Williams Gets New TV Role, To Speak Here

Columbus native Hal Williams has been signed by executive producer Don Reo to star as Sgt. L.C. Ross in the upcoming Warner Brothers television series "Private Benjamin" for CBS-TV.

Williams played the role in the Warner Brothers big grossing feature which starred Goldie Hawn. The veteran actor co-starred in the ABC-TV Afterschool Special, "Run, Don't Walk," which aired on March 3.

Williams played Principal Carter in the story about how children in wheelchairs deal with problems arising from attending public schools which do not have special provisions for the handicapped.

Meanwhile, Williams has agreed to be the commencement speaker for graduation exercises of East High School on June 8 at Mershon Auditorium. Principal Ed Willis extended the invitation and Williams accepted.

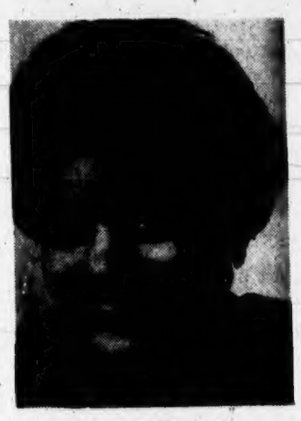

In accepting, Williams noted that the last time he spoke at an East High commencement was that of his own.

Auditions Planned For Fashion Show

The Kwanzaa Committee will hold an audition for fashion models, men and women, from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, March 9 and 6 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 10, at the Blackburn Recreation Center, 263 Carpenter St.

SUSAN BEAUBIAN Daughter Of Former Columbusite In Cast Of Palace-Bound Musical

Susan Beaubian, daughter of former Columbusite Lewis Lynch and the granddaughter of Mrs. J.L. Webster of 1428 E. Long St., is one of the headliners in "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas," the Broadway musical which opens for a two-week run March 17 at the Palace Theatre.

...in 'little whorehouse'

Ms. Beaubian has the role of "Jewel" in the musical, which continues through March 29. Previously her accomplishments included two Off-Broadway appearances, "Jam" and "The Peanut Man."

In addition, she has to her credit a seven month tour of the Broadway hit "Eubie." She also appears on the current album "The Ladies of the Eighties" produced by Roy Ayers.

The Merv Griffin show and Duke Ellington's Sacred Music Concert have also had appearances by Ms. Beaubian. She will perform here at 6:30 evenings and 8 p.m. Sunday, with matinee performances at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Tickets are available at the Palace Theatre Box Office, all Sears stores, Drake Union on the OSU campus, Lazarus stores and all Select A Seat locations, or call 469-7813.

The show is playing on Broadway for the third year and a national company is in its second year on the West Coast. The second national company, of which Ms. Beaubian is a part, is in the midst of an extensive road tour.

But as "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" has continued its long runs on Broadway, in Houston and throughout the United States, much of the initial media resistance to the title has given into reluctant acceptance. Although theatregoers represent only a small percentage of the population, the title will soon be spread across the wide screen and, presumably, the small tube eventually, when the motion picture version is ready for release. It begins filming early in 1981 with Burt Reynolds and Dolly Parton as its stars.

And it all began in Houston, where a television do-gooder newscaster went on a campaign in the mid-70s to close down that "lil ole bitty pissant country place" in LaGrange, Texas known as the Chicken Ranch. The well known bordello had existed for nearly a century, depending upon whose word you took.

Services To Clients Improved By Staff At CETA Intake Unit

After one year of operation, the staff of the Department of Community Services Intake Unit at 60 E. Main St. say that they have improved services to clients, and serviced more people as a result.

Odella T. Welch, director of the Department of Community Services, said she was "impressed with the enthusiasm and dedication of the staff" and congratulated them on decreasing the time clients had to spend in eligibility determination. Her remarks came at an anniversary celebration held Feb. 11 at the E. Main St. office.

Lillian Woodward, intake supervisor, said her staff wanted to celebrate the anniversary of their working together and the advances they have made in improving the intake process for the CETA program.

Madeline Talley, CETA assistant operations manager, said that in the past year since the intake unit was formed, it has become "one of the best run units in CETA operations."

Ms. Talley said the unit is "production oriented" and beginning in 1980 with "a brand new unit and brand new staff, they have been operating efficiently from the beginning."

The intake unit has cut down the waiting time for applicants from the former 3-4 hours to under one half hour, according to Ms. Talley. "The unit is serving more clients than ever before at increased efficiency," she said. "In 1980 alone they saw over 22,000 people."

Of the original people hired to start the Intake Unit, 20 of the original staff are still working, Ms. Woodward said. She attributes this to the congenial atmosphere of the workplace along with her periodic evaluations of staff and their production goals.

Ms. Woodward sets production goals for each worker and they are ranked as they meet or fall short of that production level. Her staff, however, attributes the success of the unit to the "fair supervisor," according to Anna Schelby. She said, "I can honestly say I like my supervisor and that's saying something."

The production oriented staff still deals with clients as individuals, Ms. Woodward said, as they "have a positive outlook with the clients."

"We know people coming in here (to apply for CETA) are uptight about bills and what have you," she said, "and our staff treats them with cheerfulness and friendliness and tells them that things aren't hopeless."

The Intake Unit is the first place potential CETA participants go when applying for CETA, and the intake workers take down necessary information from each applicant to determine their eligibility for the programs. Ms. Schelby said that one thing people do not always realize is, "Intake is fair. The same rules apply for everyone."

Nancy Miller, an intake worker, said that they have a quota of 10 or more clients a day per worker, but sometimes 20 clients per day depending upon the clients who arrive. She added, "Everyone is different with different set of problems."

Intake staffer Bobbie Jean Lutz explained that the intake workers often need to be able to adapt to any situation in order to deal with the clients who come in.

Rosetta Jones and Susan Grandison, intake staff, echo Miller's comments about everyone having different problems. They said they see clients who have family, drug, mental and drinking problems.

Intake worker Helena Brown agreed, and said that when clients can't speak English, they usually bring an interpreter with them. The problem, she said, is that sometimes the interpreters can't speak English either.

Ms. Brown added, "I think we're doing a good job in rendering a service to people...if they want to come in, come on."

"Some people think they're going to get the same approach as at other agencies when they come in here," Diana Dicks said. "We're giving out work, not money, so we're trying to make it convenient and pleasant for the applicants."

Ms. Woodward said she's proud of the work the intake staff has performed over the past year. "They're a beautiful group," she said.

Give Ex-Cons A Chance

One hears so often during a trial that the defendant is "a repeater," and, the prosecutor, to drive the point home, cities former offenses of the defendant against society which is impressive for the jurors of the trial. They believe that so much crime is carried on by repeaters.

Maybe it is, maybe it is. The important point is, why? When a human steps outside the jailhouse after a stretch, what does he face? Virtual ostracism on the part of community, city and nation.

He naturally senses a hand glove contact with former friends fully sensitive to the fact they are trying to be nice by speaking, otherwise he feels an insinuated shunning by them.

Work? Maybe some friend or parole officer, will find him a job, but even there he gets the hunch of extreme caution about him while around. If no one finds him a job, employers virtually close the door in his face. To what can he look?

How can a black ex-prisoner find a job when even those who never went to jail can't find one. White employers are too busy supplying an employment berth for refugee immigrants from the far east or down Latin America way.

Unemployment is still very high, percentage wise, but refugees of yellow complexion and almond eyes of the recent war -- they are working thanks to the benevolence of the great white good willer. Those from down Latin America way may be having a little tougher way -- some have so much colored blood in them.

The court prosecution strives to win a decision so the prosecutors never fail to bring up the past. That is a matter that should not be mentioned in view of the fact that the defendant might be innocent of the charge he is facing. But when it is mentioned that he has a criminal record a mile long, he is placed into the category of a habitual criminal.

Look at the human being. What does happen to his spirit that wants to go straight when he is questioned about every crime, big or little, after its occurence? One would have to urge, let the man alone and try to help him along the path of sensible and friendly re-integration into the community's social scene. Give him an incentive to want to stay away from criminal acts.

Don't hand him one of those condescending friendly hands and a nice smile, but treat him as an acquaintance who has just returned from a long residence in another town. Above all things, let him know that he is trusted not to repeat, not by discussion but by normal acts of trust.

If he is a guest in the house, keep the eyes in a nonchalant direction and do not act apprehensively of potentials because he is there. The common man can do a lot to help him back to a feeling of self respect and self reliance as well as nurturing self dignity that he will feel it below dignity to repeat any criminal act.

If he is a parolee, he has already heard strong lectures about him going straight by the parole officer and other officials. They all use scare tactics which really discourage any other than a criminal path.

But if his old friends come through with genuine companionship more will be accomplished in his rehabilitation than a thousand lectures by psychologists, legal advisors, parole officers or some nosey cop who knows his past.

To be sure there are repeaters. Many go over their crime acts while in jail to determine where mistakes were made and improved techniques at criminal acts are planned and, when they are released, they do try out the improved plans -- and they get caught.

But there are so many released prisoners who want to lead a new life and look to that. They don't need a sympathetic hand, but a sincere hand (a real he-man can't stand to be pitied).

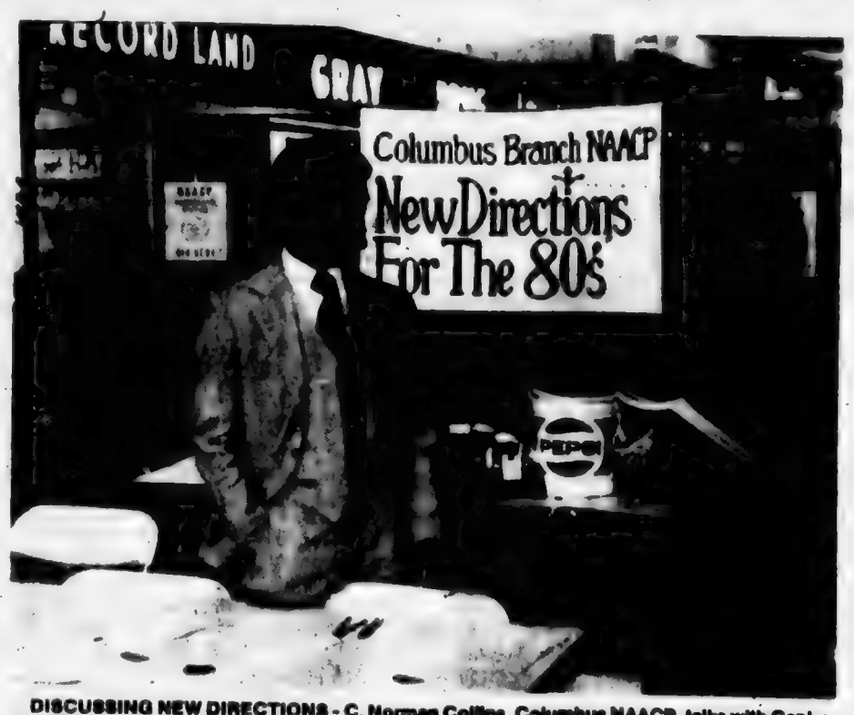

Most of the time men of jail stretches are driven into being repeaters by so many factions. People of the community can help reduce the number of persons reverting back to crime by just simple indifferent association with them, not making a fuss over their being out, not showing any pity for their plight, not exemplying over sympathetic indugences towards them, but simply by treating them as they are old acquaintances just moved back from a long residence in some other part of the country.

NAACP's Black Awareness Fair Called Success By Organizers

By RICHARD PAYNE

Thousands of shoppers filed by exhibits promoting black contributions in the Columbus area during last week's "Black Awareness Weekend" sponsored by the Columbus Chapter of the NAACP at Northland Mall on Morse Rd.

Twenty-one organizations and individuals exhibited, displayed and demonstrated black contributions to the Columbus community in the mall as part of a NAACP membership drive.

"This is an excellent opportunity for all of us to rededicate ourselves to the principles of the NAACP," said State Rep. Otto Beatty Jr. (D-Columbus) during Friday's ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Columbus NAACP President Tom Fullove said one purpose of the first annual awareness fair was to prove "we (NAACP) are a viable organization."

"Black America and black Columbus have made many great contributions ... this is an effort on our part to convey this message," said Fullove.

During opening ceremonies a proclamation was read from the mayor's office dedicating Feb. 13, 14 and 15 Columbus "Black Awareness Weekend." The NAACP also received a certificate of approval from Ohio Attorney General William J. Brown.

Individual recognitions went to: David White, Cynthia McNeal, Helen Ware, Jack Toler, Ollie Stubblefield, Dorris Calloway, Roosevelt Carter and Ruby Harris at the closing ceremonies Sunday.

Sharlene Morgan, awareness fair coordinator, thought of the idea for the fair, and after conversation with several persons, Northland was arrived at for a location.

Ms. Morgan said at first the idea was to provide a totally entertaining event.

"We decided why not make it informational, enlightening -- and entertaining," she said.

Fair entertainment included: Martial Arts South Federation (Satori Ryu), Tony West and Company, Northside Church of God's Children's Choir, Alice Grant Dancers, Beverly Vaugh, Sugar and Spice Models, Union Grove Youth Choir, Dennison University Choir, Shevawn Gibson, Debra Hardy Dancers, Sonny and Ike, Maria Ware, Paro, Clarence Beal Dancers, M.G. Express Models, Jennifer Price, Anna Bishop and Shay Banks, Ohio State Community Choir, Flash Magic, Ela Coleman and Antoinette Ware.

Ms. Morgan said because she presented the fair idea to the NAACP Columbus Chapter, -- "I do think it's needed. I think it's going to do a whole lot."

The fair enabled the NAACP to reach out to people never contacted in Columbus because of the "closed nature" of the black community here according to Ms. Morgan.

Some exhibitors in the three-day fair were: Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Fashion Fair Cosmetics, ECCO Family Health Center, KBLE Television, CALL & POST Newspapers, Capital and Ohio State Universities, Minority Business Affairs, United Negro College Fund, Ace Inc., Black Adoption Agency, Black Coloring Books, CMA-CAO, Columbus Urban League, National Alliance of Postal Employees and RAAH -- Total Woman Ministry.

Barbara Tobler, fair publicity director, said the fair was an excellent idea and would be good publicity for the NAACP.

600 people at East High School Sunday evening that a 63-member task force of local, state and federal authorities continue to seek evidence that would lead to arrest and charges placed against the person or persons responsible for the killings.

Duffy said a program to prevent further killings of children includes providing safety tips to children and parents through the school system and police officers. A program is also in operation to help parents and children deal with the mental stress that has come from the situation, he said.

The investigation is costing $150,000 a month, Duffy said. He said Mayor Maynard Jackson has requested federal aid to meet the expenses as contributions continue to come in from around the country.

Tyree said close to $3,000 had been raised on Tuesday. Contributions are being accepted at campaign headquarters at 307 N. 20th St. in the Mt. Vernon Plaza. The office is open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and from 11 a.m. Friday through 4 p.m. Sunday. The telephone number is 252-2100.

COLUMBUS CLOSE-UP

Despite Promises, Poor Could Bear Brunt Of Proposed Cuts

By TED OSHODI

Reaganeconomics. That's right. It is President Ronald Reagan's thrifty budget-slashing proposals, which many recipients of social service programs now gripe about ... with constant nightmares on their backs.

Already, some are even scared straight at the thought of the budget cuts, which would affect their pocket books.

Some just don't care a hoot about those cuts.

In Franklin County, about 64,000 people now under social welfare programs would be affected. And that means either some dent in their food stamp allocation, Aid to Dependent Children money, or the phasing out of some people from those programs.

However, such effects could be so austere that recipients of these services would have to think twice before they spend a penny at the grocery store.

TED OSHODI

Also, Reagan proposes budget cuts in the low income energy assistance program, Urban Mass Transit, etc. With those cuts, the poor face pangs of not keeping up with their gas bills; and COTA, here in Columbus, has some problems in the offing. For any cuts in the Urban Mass Transit budget would mean a cut in employment, and possibly long waits at bus stops by commuters.

Since the announcement of Reagan's proposals, many pundits and critics have been barking at the possible effects on both the poor and the middle class. A group of such critics is the Northeast-Midwest Congressional Coalition. Leaders of the coalition say they will fight to keep some programs that now benefit Ohioans.

Critics can bark and salivate. One thing I cannot understand is Reagan's economic speech, a part of which reads: "Those who through no fault of their own must depend on the rest of us, the poverty striken, the disabled, the elderly, all those with true need, can rest assured that the social safety net of programs they depend on are exempt from any cuts..."

But, in his proposed budget cuts, Reagan recommends cuts that are bound to affect the poor, the disabled, the elderly, all of whom were assured that the social safety net of programs they depend on would not be tampered with.

What an empty assurance it would be if the safety programs the people depend on are axed ... and, are not exempt from any cuts, as promised by Reagan!

Cuts or no cuts, according to one Columbus recipient of welfare assistance, "I will survive, survive, by making up for the difference through mugging and stealing from the rich ones."

Please, young man, pleaded, don't mug, steal or rob people.

It is evident that Reagan's budget cuts raise questions about the future of the "non-working poor" and the "working poor" who are just barely making it now in Columbus without some government help.

In effect, the proposed trimming of the budget could have some impact on

Retirement Dinner For Pauline Marshall Marks End Of An Era For Cancer Clinic

The elegant retirement dinner party for Mrs. Pauline B. Marshall marked the end of an era for the dedicated director of the Columbus Cancer Clinic, 550 Thomas Lane. Trustees of the clinic turned out in full force at the Columbus Club to show their appreciation and to hear and make fitting and deserving comments about Mrs. Marshall, the retiree.

The superb evening, which was hosted by Don Casto III, began with cocktails in an exquisite setting. The dinner that followed was of the kind, quality and taste that food editor Craig Claiborne would have appreciated and complimented. The very private club has old world charm and the services was almost flawless.

It was a very relaxed evening and instead of a formal program, Mrs. Samuel Black was asked to give an informal history of the clinic. Mrs. Black said that, The Columbus Cancer Clinic was founded in 1921 by Mrs. Samuel Black Sr. The clinic began operations about 60 years ago at Washington Ave. and Oak St. in a building that was donated by the Rotary Club. The clinic was staffed by volunteers and there weren't any bills and the doctors were not paid.

According to Mrs. Black, the Clinic moved from the Oak St. - Washington Ave address in 1943. She said they moved into a dwelling which was next door to Schoedinger Funeral Home and while in that location, there was always flowers. About this time, the Rays were organized to provide financial and other supportive services needed by cancer patients of the clinic. The clinic remained at this location until about 1954 when it was moved to the University Hospital and it was moved from the hospital to the debt free building on Thomas Lane.

When it was Atty. John A. Carnahan's turn to speak as president of the board of trustees, he began by saying that Mrs. Marshall had run the clinic efficiently and it was the only debt free organization he was affiliated with, including his own household.

Dr. Arthur G. James said that Mrs. Marshall had been with the Clinic since 1963, when she started as a home care nurse. "When any reference is made to the Columbus Cancer Clinic, people think of Pauline with a sense of pride," he said.

Mrs. Marshall received a placque to commemorate her service, and she loved it because it was the first one she had ever received. "My husband had received many," she said. She also received a beautiful gold pin that caused some of the ladies to ooh and ah.

Mrs. Marshall related how she came to work for the Cancer Clinic back in 1960. She said she read the ad in the newspaper for a nurse to see patients in home. She said that throughout the years, her work at the clinic has been challenging, frustrating and rewarding.

Mrs. Marshall, who was trained at Grant Hospital, said that you may go into the clinic with a planned day, but things may be different. Mrs. Marshall thanked the board of trustees, saying "The Board has supported me in everything I asked for, perhaps I should have asked for more." She congratulated the Rays for doing a tremendous job.

Members of the Columbus Cancer Clinic at the time of Mrs. Marshall's retirement were John A. Carnahan, Mrs. Robert Mangum, J. Jeffrey McNeeley, Richards-Donaldson, Rev. Jacob Ashburn, Allison L. Augur Jr., Lloyd W. Barnes, M.D., J. Thomas Bashore, Mrs. Joseph Benis, Mrs. Alice L. Bentley, Don M. Casto III, Ms. Jarrett C. Chavous, Mrs. Pat Cramer Jr., Ohmer O. Crowell, Mrs. Donald F. Epler, T. William Evans, D.D.S., M.D., Paul R. Ginger and James A. Hamrick.

Other members of the Cancer Clinic Board are Leri Immke, Donald Jacoby, Joseph A. Jeffrey Jr., Mrs. James Jordan, William D. Knerr, M.D., Robert J.G. Morton, Thomas A. Nims, M.D., Mrs. Alan L. Ortlip, Ronald S. Paul, Ph.D., James D. Pritchard, M.D., John P. Smith, M.D. George Snodgrass, Richard R. Stedman, Todd Tiball, G.M. Trautman, Jr., Donald J. Vincent, M.D., Robert N. Waddell, Alan R. Weiler and Mrs. A.C. Wyker.

Honorary life members are Samuel L. Black, Mrs. Samuel Black, Charles A. Doan, M.D., Mrs. Fred Lazarus Jr., Mrs. Simon Lazarus, R.L. Ratchford and Judson D. Wilson, M.D.

Mrs. Alice Paugh, who succeeded Mrs. Marshall as director of the Cancer Clinic, was also at the dinner party, which was beautifully planned by Mrs. Robert E. Mangum, the 1981 president, Mrs. James Jordan and Mrs. Joseph Benis, both past presidents, and Mrs. Simon Lazarus.

Cupidettes Preparing For Teenage Pageant

As spring approaches, the Columbus Cupidettes Club is busy planning their 16th annual "Miss Teenage Cupidette Pageant" which awards $1,750 in scholarships to college-bound seniors from area high schools.

This year the pageant will be held 5 to 9 p.m. May 17 at the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow, 2400 Olentangy River Rd.

The Cupidettes a chartered organization that has been part of the community for more than 40 years, will offer $1,000 to the girl student graduating from high school in June 1981. The first-prize award is to be applied to the university, college or technical school of the student's choice.

The first and second runners-up will also receive scholarship awards. In addition, each person participating in the pageant receives a prize and a special gift.

Each participant is judged on talent, poise, personality and presentation. In competition, the contestants will display their talents in the areas of drama, singing, sewing, design and instrumental music.

Last year's scholarship winner, Patricia Paugh, is attending the University of Cincinnati and she will crown this year's Miss Teenage Cupidette.

Any student in area high schools who will graduate before or in June 1981 is invited to enter the contest. To request an application or further information, contact Pauline, Johnson, chairperson, at 252-9941; Ruth Washington, co-chairperson, 239-1131; or Rosebud Brown, 253-1353.

This year's pageant will include a "get acquainted" hour for club members, contestants and their parents, a rap session and workshops.

Salon Owners Set Meeting

The Salon Owners Association will have a special meeting at 10 a.m. Monday, March 9, at the Martin Luther King Library, 1600 E. Long St.

Amos H. Lynch Sr., general manager of The CALL & POST, will be the guest speaker.

In the future, all meetings of the association will be held the second Monday of each month at the King Library.

Carla Robinson Is Selected As Oustanding Young Woman

Carla A. Robinson of 4331 Malin Dr. has been selected an Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1981. The selection honors the accomplishments of women in their homes, communities and professions.

Miss Robinson, a graduate of Kent State University and a member of Southfield Baptist Church, recently received a commendation from State Rep. Otto Beatty Jr. and the Ohio House of Representatives in recognition of her achievements.

She is active in professional, civic community and social organizations.

Miss Robinson teaches at John Burroughs Elementary School.

According to Mrs. Black, the Clinic moved from the Oak St. - Washington Ave address in 1943. She said they moved into a dwelling which was next door to Schoedinger Funeral Home and while in that location, there was always flowers. About this time, the Rays were organized to provide financial and other supportive services needed by cancer patients of the clinic. The clinic remained at this location until about 1954 when it

Foster Mother For Infants Ends 15 Years Of Service

After 15 years of fostering children, Myra McKibbon has retired as foster mother for Catholic Social Service. Mrs. McKibbon, a long time resident of south Columbus, was a foster mother to 27 infants and young children during that time.

She also raised two children of her own. Her daughters are now grown and married. Her oldest daughter, Bambi, lives in Washington, D.C. and the younger, Carol, lives in Columbus.

Mrs. McKibbon has not been able to keep in touch with all of her foster children but she enjoys reminiscing about them when she looks through her photo albums. Mrs. McKibbon made sure she had pictures of all her foster children to remember them by.

One little boy came to Mrs. McKibbon as a premature infant and stayed with her until he was adopted when he was six-years old. "It was very hard when he left," recalled Mrs. McKibbon, who is a widow. "But he needed a father."

She was for several years the only black foster home for infants with Catholic Social Service, and continues to receive Christmas cards and pictures from families of former foster children.

Her retirement has left the agency with a need for licensed black foster homes for infants, said Patricia Thrall, foster care worker for the agency. "We have some wonderful black foster families for teenagers, but none for infants," she said.

Mrs. Thrall said there has been an increase recently in the number of black newborn infants that have been provided foster care and adptive services by Catholic Social Service.

She said the agency is looking for black families interested in being foster parents for the infants. If interested persons are between the ages of 22 and 60, in good health ahd want to provide care for an infant on a temporary basis, contact Mrs. Thrall at 221-5891.

Prosecutor Says Whitfield Murder By White Woman

reportedly wore to the emergency room. Walden told Julie Joseph of the police department assault squad that after the rape she did urinate and wipe herself with a toilet tissue. Stover said that this would have no effect on semen in the vagina.

Walden and Whitfield met when both were employed by Pizza Hut Restaurant in the Great Southern Shopping Center. She denies any social involvement with Whitfield and said she had never been alone with him.

Walden's defense said her first encounter with Whitfield began on her first day of employment when he asked her "if she was screwable." According to the statement, Walden told Joseph that after she rebuffed his advances, harassment of her began.

She claims he telephoned her at odd hours threatening her. She believes he burglarized her apartment on June 6, 1980. On the Tuesday of June 10, between the hours of 6:30 and 7 p.m. Walden alleged she left her apartment door unlocked while she walked her dog. When she returned, Whitfield was in her living room.

She said she then reached for her keys, turned to leave when Whitfield put his arms around her pulling her close and kissing her. A struggle ensued and he subsequently raped her on the floor, Walden said.

Prosecution introduced evidence a piece of paper found on the front of the car belonging to Whitfield. The letter, a police applicant notice, was found on the front seat of the impounded vehicle. On the back of the letter was a notation listing Walden's phone number, address, date and day, and the time listing of 7 p.m.

According to Walden, Joseph testified, when Whitfield finished he then rolled off her toward the bed. She reached for the loaded shotgun and fired once, striking Whitfield in the mid section. He grabbed his stomach and started moaning, but continued toward her.

Walden said she reloaded and fired again, according to testimony. She said she was turning when she fired the second shot and did not know where he was hit.

She then explained that she called her work number first because she could not find the number for police. Columbus Police found Whitfield dead lying face down nude--except for socks and a wristwatch. The deputy coroner said the first bullet was sufficient because it was fired at a closer range than the second.

CAROLE KAHN-WHITE, executive artistic director of Columbus Stage Centre, will be the hostess for a new television program to air on WCMH-TV4. "Coffee House 4" will air at 7 a.m. each Sunday. The program showcases the culture of Columbus and Central Ohio, according to Daryl Moeller, the station's Community Services Director. A coffee house set will be utilized with areas for dramatic presentations, dancing, interviews and artwork displays. When necessary, the set will be able to accommodate a studio audience, she said. "With this show we are offering a regular forum for the presentation of culture and arts in an artistic setting," she said. The show is produced by the Community Services Department of the station.

ARTIST DISPLAYS WORK - William Agnew is shown with one of several paintings he will be exhibiting at the opening reception March 8, from 1 to 4 p.m., at the Kojo Photo Art Studio, 90 North Washington Ave. The Art for Community Expression, Inc., will present Agnew, along with Cleveland sculpturer Ed Parker. The exhibition will be on display through April 11, 1981.

Two Intruders Die

man.

Owens was reportedly able to maneuver to a hall telephone where he attempted to alert the police. Owens then grabbed a revolver kept near the phone and fired once, striking Hunter in the head.

Police said Hunter was apparently assisted by the other intruder to a vehicle (a red Cadillac believed to be Hunter's) and dropped off at St. Anthony's emergency room. Police are still hunting for the second intruder.

Hunter, who was paroled from the Columbus Correctional Facility in December 1979, is said by police to have an extensive arrest record. He had served six months of an 18-month-to-10-year aggravated robbery sentence.

Owens had reported the theft of $10,000 in cash and merchandise stolen from his home on Jan. 9.

Hunter is survived by wife, Cynthia; son, Jermaine; father, William H., of Buffalo, N.Y., mother and stepfather, Ernestine and Edward Chatman, of the residence; brothers, William L. Hunter and Edward J. Chatman, both of Columbus, Mark A. Chatman, US Army; sister, Kathy Bell, of Columbus.

In another break-in shooting incident, Michael Griffin, of 1461 Madison Ave., died of a gunshot wound in the side Sunday at St. Anthony Hospital.

The residents of a home at 1500 Fair Ave. were alerted when Griffin allegedly entered the house, police said.

The man of the house spotted Griffin and held him at gunpoint while his wife telephone the police, Sgt. John Shawkey of the homicide division said.

Griffin then ran into the room where the man's wife was, but was gunned down before he could reach her, Shawkey said.

Black Workers Troubled By Moves At Children Services

to--who were involved in either lateral transfers or changes in job classifications--said they did not wish to be identified because "vindictive" actions may be taken against them."

A service technician said that black workers have been reduced in both the areas of seeking adoptive homes and finding foster homes for orphans.

The employee said there are no black home-study workers while 60 percent of the clientele are black.

"There are no blacks finding homes for especially needy kids, and many especially needy kids are black," the employee said.

The employee said she did a personal investigation and found that 26 employees, from administrative specialist to case aide, were involved in reassignments. Of that number, only six were white, she said.

The employee said that of the six whites reassigned, many were very vocal and tended to act liberally.

Another black employee said she now does the job of two people because all the employees in her unit were removed.

A high ranking employee that has had her position abolished and is now being transferred said, "They (the agency) are trying to make people as unhappy as possible."

"I had done the same work as all the caseworkers in the unit. They saw the chance to move, and did it, vindictively," the employee said.

The employee said she was involved in a job action that was taken all the way to the county commissioner. She feels her transfer and declassification as a professional stems from being considered a troublemaker.

Jansen said that all this is untrue, and that the later case is from the employee being "unhappy about a lateral transfer."

"Her position has been abolished. It has nothing to do with a letter to the county commissioner. I'm not even sure that the people there (in personnel) knew that she did."

Jansen said that he personally would "bend over backwards" to prevent a racial problem.

The employee said she would continue to pursue avenues to salvage her job classification and to fight her transfer.

One of the employees interviewed said, "I can believe the budget is low, but cut the luxuries not the client related services."

She felt that none of the new changes are time efficient or cost effective. She listed these problems with the changes:

•60 percent direct services would make it impossible for caseworkers to get all their paper work done because of the volumns of clients they'd be seeing.

•The employee said the success in recruiting homes for black children over the years would be nullified due to the small amount of minority workers in that area.

•She said, "the best people are leaving because they can take their talents somewhere else where they're appreciated."

She added that, "The more work you do the less you are appreciated."

Boy Scouts

for the situation. I thought about how I could show my support and what a great gram without the proper approval from the Scout Master and members of the Troop Committee.

When reached by telephone at the print shop where he works, Scout support from the National Scouting Council, Coulter contacted Jim Bartell of the Greater Cleveland Scouting Council.

Bartell did as asked and contacted the national council, but told Coulter that he would not send any public relations people to the event. He also told Coulter that he felt that Scouts shouldn't get involved in trying to "pressure the government". "I don't want people to get the wrong impression when they see scouts walking around with black arm bands," said Bartell." It's just something scouts shouldn't be involved in."

Bartell also claims that Coulter planned the pro-Master Sig Hoffenbach, said he could not hear this reporter and hung up.

As a result none of the scouts in Troop 666 were allowed to participate in the program.

Coulter, clad in Scouting garb and carrying a handful of sympathetic signs, was the only one at that Rocky River church the economics of the black community. For example, if the black community faces an economic system that generates income inequality and relative poverty, it is clear that the community as a whole would be on the threshold of poverty ... or, worse.

Despite Promises, Poor Could Bear Brunt Of Proposed Cuts

Some people now say that the budget cuts are part of Reagan schemes to rob the poor for the rich. Whether or not this is true remains to be seen. Right now, no one knows how Congress would look on Reagan's economic package. You see, the President proposes and Congress disposes.

You, the poor, the disabled, the elderly, just keep your fingers crossed.

Now, hold your breath, if the proposed budget cuts are approved by Congress, what are you going to do? Leave Columbus, and yet fall into the hands of budget cuts in another city? What are your thoughts on the proposed budget cuts as they affect your pocket books? Write in with your comments on this particular issue.

Darts & Laurels

Laurel -- to Cliff Tyree, administrator of Columbus Youth Services Bureau, and his group, Atlanta Investigation Donation (AID), for their thoughtfulness and dedication to a worthy cause -- the cause of organizing to raise $10,000 to be used toward apprehending the person or persons responsible for the slayings of 19 black children, and the recent disappearance of two others.

I doff my hat to these honorable men and women. Thanks to Collins Haynesworth, Mrs. Catherine Willis and many others who are responding to the clarion call for this kind of donation, and help.

Laurel -- to the Columbus Chapter of Blacks In Government (BIG) for their togetherness and effort in organizing BIG, which focuses on ways to combat bigotry and discrimination in the job market. More grease to your elbows, guys.

Scales Sentenced

officer Herbert Klopfer. He ordered the terms to be served consecutively with an added sentence of six to 25 years on an earlier aggravated robbery conviction.

Scales, who pleaded guilty to all charges, faces a total prison term of 15 to 75 years. The accused pleaded guilty through a bill of information, and has agreed to waive a grand jury indictment.

Mrs. Callie Scales, of 121 N. Yale Ave., said she doesn't feel her son was given a fair deal. She said she agreed that her son did commit the crimes he was charged with, but that the sentencing was too stiff.

"I think Shoemaker could have combined his time. If it had been some white youth, then it would have been different," Ms. Scales said.

Vincent Scales (listed at his mother's address) was charged with felonious assault in the Dec. 17 shooting of Klopfer. In addition, he pleaded guilty to separate aggravated robbery charges occurring Dec. 22 at a gas station, and on Aug. 10 at a restaurant.

Under state law, the maximum sentence for crimes less than murder is 15 years.

"I hate it because he was so young and has to do so much time," Ms. Scales said.

She said that her four other children are still grieving over the Shoemaker decision. "They're pretty down about it," she said.

Ms. Scales said she is in the process of planning an appeal to the sentences consecutive. Scales could get paroled on the Aug. 10 robbery charge during the month of February 1983; however, would still have to serve out the other sentences.

Prosecuting Attorney George Ellis has reported that Officer Klopfer is satisfied with the guilty pleas. Klopfer, who recently returned to duty, could not be reached for comment and family members refuse to discuss the matter.

Alpha Chi Pi Omega Sorority

The Alpha Chi Pi Omega Sorority, Phi Zeta Mu Chapter, will present its annual Founders Day tea and baby contest April 26, at 1862 Franklin Ave. The program is to benefit the sorority's scholarship fund.

The Phi Zeta Mu Sorority will sponsor a pancake and waffle breakfast from 8 to 10:45 a.m. Sunday, March 8, at 1171 Mt. Vernon Ave.

The chapter will attend the national convention May 16-25 in San Diego, Calif. The next meeting of the sorority will be March 23, at the home of Dorothy Napper.

Rev. Gladys J. Thomas Funeral Service Held

Funeral services for the Rev. Gladys J. (Patton) Thomas, who died Saturday in Terre Haute, Ind., were held Tuesday at the Holy Church of God, 1402 Granville St., where she was an assistant pastor.

REV. GLADYS J. (PATTON) THOMAS
...funeral held tuesday

Rev. Thomas, 50, of 1457 Granville St., was known as the "Angel of Love" for her radio program on WCVO Radio. When she died unexpectedly, she was returning to Columbus from California.

Her friends and relatives described her as a "pillar of strength for the Eastside community." She had a smile that brightened the world for many, they said.

Reportedly more than 1,000 people attended the wake on Monday at McNabb Funeral Home. Elder W.C. Cube officiated at the funeral and interment was in Eastlawn Cemetery.

She was survived by her husband, the Rev. Calvin Thomas Sr.; daughters, the Rev. Marie (Frank) Stevens, Carol Lynn Page and Gladys A. Thomas; sons, Calvin (Vena) Thomas, Larry (Sabrina) Thomas, Willie (Clarissa) Thomas, Edward and Fred Thomas; mother, Rev. Marie (Fred) Rampley; brothers, Kenneth and Samuel Patton; 16 grandchildren and a host of nieces, nephews and other relatives and friends.

Nourishment

Bottle feeding, one method of providing nourishment to an infant, is often misused as a pacifier.

The Dairy and Nutrition Council says abuse occurs when a bottle filled with sweetened liquids is given to a child at bedtime for comfort or to control behavior, nursing bottle mouth can result.

Schools Have New Scale For Free Meals Program

A revised family income scale to determine children's eligibility for free and reduced price lunches is now being used by the Columbus Public Schools. According to school officials, the revision is required by amendments to the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk Programs order by Congress in December 1980.

All applications for free and reduced price lunches now on file will be reviewed and eligibility determined according to the new income scales, officials said. Parents will be notified by March 6 if their children are no longer eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Families currently now receiving meal assistance may obtain an application at any Columbus Public School. Their eligibility will be determined according to the revised guidelines.

we're looking for . . . .

a new breed of management

Economists predict that foodservice sales will exceed $123 billion in 1981 and also that limited menu/fast service restaurants will enjoy the greatest increase in the entire industry, 12.3 percent.

As the fastest growing chain in the country, our need for high potential management personnel has never been greater. Our new Management Development Program was designed to bring high caliber individuals into our restaurants in an entry level capacity and develop their talents to become Unit Managers in a short period of time. Our priority is to prepare these management people to move into upper-level positions in multi-unit supervision or other specialized areas within our corporate structure.

To be successful in our program, we feel a candidates background should include:

- A college background in a business related field.
- Leadership ability as demonstrated in various extra-curricular activities.
- Employment experience with exposure to general business principles.
- Evidence of an ability to deal effectively with people at all levels.
- Realistic and sincere career goals.

GOOD MORNING JUDGE

Nineteen-year-old Ronald Williams heads the list of people scheduled to appear in court for preliminary hearings and enforcement of sentences.

Williams, 3551 Rand Square, will face two counts of aggravated trafficking and a single count of trafficking in marijuana. Williams is charged with possessing marijuana and LSD for sale. He has been free on a surety bond.

A nineteen year old Columbus man will answer to an aggravated robbery charge. He was charged with robbing a Burger King restaurant at gunpoint on Feb. 27.

Larry Lear, 1263 Madison Ave. is charged with one count of forgery. According to police affidavits, Lear, 32, attempted to cash a check made out to himself for $245.00 and drawn on the Huntington National Bank.

Wallace Johnson Jr., 26, 790 Bryden Road, is charged with passing bad checks. On the 29th of April, 1980, police allege that he wrote a check to J.C. Penney knowing the check would be dishonored. He has been free on a $2,000 surety bond.

Police also charge Carolyn Forida, 21, 380 Kendall Place with forgery after she allegedly tried to cash a check for $185.32 on Feb. 19. She has been free on a $1,000 appearance bond.

William Burgess, 556 Berkeley, is charged with aggravated trafficking in drugs. On Feb. 14, 1981 he allegedly sold or offered to sell LDS, a controlled substance according to police affidavits.

Willey C. Worthy, 1770 S. 20th St. Apt. C pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and was fined $100 and costs. Seventy-five dollars of the fine will be suspended if paid by March 5. Worthy, according to police affidavits, was fighting with his mother and brother and was ordered to leave the property by Columbus police. He later returned, police said, and entered the residence through a rear window and continued fighting.

Kenneth G. Norah, last known address, 1376 Brooks is charged with forgery and criminal damaging after attempting to cash a stolen check at Woolworth's Dept. store in the Westland Mall. While fleeing from sheriff's deputies he allegedly caused damage estimated at $200.

Marion L. Tyler, 2737 Brentnell, will answer to two counts of petty theft for allegedly attempting to steal hub caps from autos belonging to Jane Gray and Philip Romano.

Jacob Reid, 27, 584 Stincomb Dr. Apt. 3, pleaded guilty to petty theft from the Kroger Company, Olentangy River Road. He was fined $60 and costs and must appear to pay his fine by March 5. According to police records Reid attempted to steal two cans of deodorant valued at $3.02

Michael Brown, 19, 284 S. Hague, had his obstructing official business charge amended to disorderly conduct and pleaded guilty. He was fined $75.00 and costs. Brown must appear by March 6 to pay his fine. According to police Brown tried twice to release a prisoner from the rear of a police cruiser after being warned not to.

Corey L. Jackson, 2838 Bulen Ave. will begin serving three days in the workhouse on March 6 for attempting to steal an analyzer test kit from a Gold Circle store. On the petty theft charge he received 30 days in the workhouse, suspension of 27, one year non-reporting probation and a fine of $50 and costs.

Cortez B. Hayes, 27, 1121 Ellsworth Ave. will appear to answer to a rape charge. According to police records Hayes allegedly forced himself on an Eastside resident on the 17th of Feb.

Aaron Pollard, 24, 741 Rarig is charged with receiving stolen property, a 1980 Chevrolet.

Eric Tanner, 3042 Bellwood is to appear on a petty theft charge. He is charged with taking a truck battery from the Barclay Square Apt. Mgt. He was found guilty and sentenced to ten days in the workhouse and fined $50. He must appear by March 6 for enforcement of his sentence.

Verneil Wade, last known address, 1106 E. 20th is charged in an armed robbery that netted only $4.00.

On March 10, John Thomas, 15 Rodgers Ave. must appear in court to pay a $50 fine after pleading guilty to carrying drugs onto the grounds of a detention facility, the Franklin County Jail.

Kim V. Coles, 1498 23 Ave., pleaded guilty to a theft charge and was fined $75 and costs. She must appear to pay her fine by March 10. Coles is charged with the theft of underwear, earrings, bras and a slip with the value of $30.13 from a Gold Circle store.

Eric Moses, no known address, is charged with one count of receiving stolen property, driving under suspension, driving without a license and failure to display tag after being stopped at the intersection of E. Main St. and Miller Ave. He will appear in court March 10. According to police Moses had in his possession a stolen Shell Credit card.

Larry Evans, 868, Fulton St. must pay a $50 fine by March 10 on a plea of guilty to a disorderly charge. According to police affidavits Evans used abusive foul language toward residents of a S. Champion Ave. address.

Ruby Watkins, 2757 Vangage Point must also appear to pay fines by March 10. Watkins pleaded guilty to failure to control animal and failure to register dog. She was fined $25 and cost on both charges.

Beefing Up The US Army

Today's volunteer peacetime Army is an unqualified flop, requiring extensive restructuring and a new identity. It is seriously understaffed, leading Sen. Sam Nunn (D., Ga.) to comment that "our military-manpower problem may prove to be our nation's No. 1 security problem."

So writes Ralph Kinney Bennett in the March Reader's Digest. He reports that the Army is "inadequately trained, indifferently disciplined and composed increasingly of minorities and undereducated or barely educatable whites. About 50 percent of recruits have high-school diplomas, and better than 45 percent are 'Category IVs,' the lowest intelligence category permitted in the service."

There is an even more serious problem, however: Bennett charges that the government itself has destroyed the Army's identity. "Civilian authorities have replaced leadership with 'management' and egalitarian experimentation," he writes. "They have made the Army into a combination school, encounter-group and jobs program rather than a disciplined fighting force ready to defend the nation."

The problems until now have been virtually ignored by a series of Administrations, beginning with the Kennedy years. Congress must help rectify them by making extended service better paid and by rewarding NCOs

INTRODUCTION

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development offers the following types of properties for sale to the highest bidder over the minimum price stated subject to the preferences noted below:

1. Repaired Properties
These properties have been repaired by HUD and brought up to local codes. They are offered with a one-year structural and systems warranty and are to be sold all cash, with a conventional or a VA mortgage, or with a mortgage insured Section 203b of the National Housing Act (NHA). Owner-occupants will be given preference and offers will be accepted on the basis of the best price.
2. As is to be Repaired by the Buyer After Completion of Sale
These properties are listed for sale in an unrepaired condition without expressed or implied warranty. These properties may be purchased by either owner-occupants (persons intending to remain in the property subsequent to closing and repairs) or by non-occupants (persons intending to rent or sell following the closing and repair). Owner-occupant bids will be given preference over investors. It is the responsibility of the buyer to make any repairs needed in order to bring the property up to code. The properties must be purchased on an all-cash basis. It is the responsibility of the purchaser to obtain the financing necessary to close (this may include mortgages, loans, etc.)
3. Vacant Lots
These are sold all cash.
HUD properties are offered for sale to qualified purchasers, without regard to the prospective purchaser's race, color, religion, or national origin. Purchasers are instructed to contact the real estate broker of their choice. Offers to purchase may be submitted directly to the local HUD office when the purchaser cannot secure the services of a qualified broker.

Owner-Occupant Preference
Owner-occupant preference will be given only if the bid envelope is clearly marked "Owner-Occupant" and the occupancy certification on the HUD-9551 is completed. Bids which are not properly completed will be treated as investor bids.

Requirements for Selling Brokers
Any licensed real estate broker who has completed and returned the Joint HUD-VA Non-discrimination Certification may sell a HUD-Acquired property.

Buckeye Seniors Lifted Team From Big 10 Cellar

By HIRAM L. TANNER

Here we go again. Whenever the Ohio State basketball team fails to win the Big Ten and/or the NCAA, the fans become restless.

In 1960, Fred Taylor, coach of the Buckeyes that year and his fabulous five of Mel Nowell, Joe Roberts, Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Larry Seigfried, brought fame and glory to the dear old Scarlet and Gray by winning the Big Ten championship and the NCAA title. Since that time no other Buckeye team has been able to duplicate that feat.

The seniors on the team this year will make their final home appearance on Thursday, at 8:10 p.m. against Purdue and against Iowa on Saturday at 3:15 p.m. The seniors making their final home stand are Todd Penn, Jim Smith, Carter Scott, Marquis Miller and Herb Williams.

Although these seniors have been inconsistent in their performance during the past few weeks, they have stuck it out. Players can tell when their performance has not been the best. They can also tell when another player is good or not. These seniors still have two more games to move above the 50 percent mark. Their overall record is 12-13 with 7-9 in the conference.

When these seniors arrived at Ohio State four years ago, the Buckeyes were 9-18 for the season and 4-14 in the Big Ten-which was good for 10th place in the league. As freshmen the Bucks moved to 16-11 for the season and 9-9 in the Conference for 6th place.

As sophomores, OSU was 19-12 overall and 12-6 in the Big Ten for a 4th place finish. Their 4th place finish carried them to the NIT. They won over St. Joseph 88-66, Maryland

HERB WILLIAMS

79-72 and lost to Indiana 64-55 and Alabama 95-86.

Last year as juniors, these young men came within one game of winning the Big Ten, losing to Indiana 76-73 on the last game of the regular season in an overtime period in Bloomington. This second place finish in the conference earned them a position in the NCAA for the first time since 1971. They won over Arizona State 89-75 and lost to UCLA 72-68.

Attendance at St. John Arena increased from an average of 7,500 per game to more than 13,300 per game during these seniors four year stay. We know a few players both black and white who transferred from Ohio State and/or quit. These five players have stayed with the program and all loyal Buckeye fans and "Curb Stone Alumni" (tax payers) should give them a standing ovation when they are introduced for their final home appearance.

The leading senior among these five players is Williams, who has been one of the outstanding centers in college basketball. During his career he has scored 1,974 points and needs 17 to become Ohio State's top career scorer, surpassing Jerry Lucas' 1,990. Lucas only scored 11 points in his final game with the Buckeyes.

Williams was chosen first team all-Big Ten player in 1980. He has started all of the Buckeyes 112 games. His other accomplishments included scoring in the double figures in 86 of 87 games, led the Big Ten in rebounding in 1979 and tied for this honor in 1980.

Last year Williams led Ohio State in scoring, rebounding and blocked shots. One shouldn't underestimate Williams opportunity with the pros. He will not be confronted with the zone in the big time show.

One of the hardest workers among the seniors is Jim Smith. Because of his aggressive style around both boards, he constantly gets into foul trouble. At the present time Smith is third on the team with 112 rebounds and fourth in scoring with 177 points for a 7.1 average.

Scott, one of the Buckeyes co-captains, played center on the Barberton High School state champions. He is the team's top free throw shooter. He is also the third top scorer behind Clark Kellogg and Williams with 277 points for an average of 11.1.

The smallest senior with the biggest heart is Penn of Linden McKinley. In high school he led Linden to two state titles in 1975 and again in 1977. As a sophomore Penn started 19 games. This year he has only started eight of the 25 games he has played. He has scored 171 points for a 6.8 average.

Miller, a guard from St. Charles, will not suit up for the Buckeyes final two games because of a leg injury. Miller has been plagued with injuries throughout his college career. An ankle dislocation ended his sophomore year and a rare affliction, histoplasmosis, limited his playing time his junior year.

We salute these five seniors because we believe they have improved Ohio State's basketball program over the four years they've played. The coaches' performance should also be evaluated after the season is over with an eye as to what the future holds for this program initiated by Eldon Miller.

All-American Cablevision will telecast up to 25 games of the NCAA Basketball Tournament this year. The games will be carried by the Entertainment and Sports Program Network (ESPN) on cable channel 21.

ONLY THE ARMY OFFERS YOU $15,200 FOR COLLEGE WITH JUST A TWO-YEAR ENLISTMENT.

If you'd rather start college with the money to pay for it than finish college in debt, it could pay you to consider the Army.

Because only the Army combines college benefits totaling $15,200 with the benefit of a short two-year enlistment.

If you participate in the Veterans' Educational Assistance Program (VEAP), the money you save for college is matched two-for-one by the government. Then, if you qualify, only the Army will add up to $8,000 on top of that.

That's $15,200 in just two years. Only the Army offers it. And only the Army offers the widest variety of choices of location or training, too.

Serve your country as you serve yourself. Call 800-421-4422. In California, call 800-252-0011. Better yet, look in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting."

Counselors Meet

The Counseling and Consultation Service of Ohio State University hosted the Big Ten Counseling Centers Conference last Wednesday through Friday at the Ohio Union.

About 75 psychologists and students from all of the counseling centers represented in the Big Ten Conference participated, along with the University of Cincinnati and Southern Illinois University. Dr. Willie Glover was chairperson for the conference.

Art Exhibit Set

The Office of Minority Affairs at Ohio State University will sponsor an art exhibition through Friday at the Skylight Gallery in the Main Library, 1858 Neil Ave. Phillip Lindsay Mason, artist-in-residence in the OMA, will have his works exhibited.

The OMA will sponsor the film "Conrack", starring Paul Winfield, Jon Voight and Hume Cronyn, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 5, in the Conference Theater of the Ohio Union, 1739 N. High St. The documentary "The American Parade: with all Deliberate Speed" will also be shown. There is no charge.

Reception Planned

Ohio University will host a reception in the Dean Jeffers Auditorium of the Nationwide Insurance Building, 1 Nationwide Plaza, at 2 p.m. Sunday March 8, to familiarize high school students, parents and guidance counselors with the programs at the Athens campus.

University President Dr. Charles Ping will be the main speaker at the reception.

Grants Available

The Central Ohio Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America (PRSA) is accepting applications for its Student Financial Grant Award and Professional Development Seminar Scholarship.

One of two $500 grants will be awarded to a full-time student at the Ohio State University and Ohio University. Recipients must be a junior or senior in good academic standing and pursuing a degree in journalism. Financial need must also be demonstrated.

Scholarships will also be awarded to students from OSU and OU to participate in intensive one-day seminars on career development in public relations.

The deadline for the grant award is April 1. For applications, contact Susan K. Leonart, Academy for Contemporary Problems, 1501 Neil Ave., Columbus, 43201.

Engineers Sought

Applications are being sought through April 30 for students interested in Ohio University's summer Pre-Engineering Program for Minorities. The 10-week program is open to students who are admitted to the university for the 1981-82 academic year.

Tuition is provided free to students through scholarships sponsored by the College of Engineering and Technology and Industry. Room and board expenses may be partially offset by part-time employment provided by the university, according to officials. To request an application, write to Professor Ralph Smith, coordinator of the Pre-Engineering Program, 317 Engineering Building, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio 45701.

Nigerians At OSU

Some 46 students from the State of Bauchi in Nigeria arrived at Ohio State University this winter quarter to study in the College of Education. Some 210 students are expected to prepare as teachers for Bauchi over a five-year period.

The program is being coordinated by William J. Holloway, professor of education, and director of the program, and Richard Kelsey, associate professor of education and associate director of the program. The Nigerian Ministry of Education is paying for the program, with a total estimated cost in excess of $5 million.

Registration Due

Registration for summer classes at Franklin University begins March 18 and continues through April 26 at the University, 201 S. Grant Ave. For further information, call 224-6237.
